VICA Welcomes Members, Officials to Ribbon Cutting at New Office

VICA President Stuart Waldman, VICA Past Chair, Board Member and Calabasas City Councilmember Fred Gaines (Gaines & Stacey), L.A. City Councilmember Paul Koretz, Assemblymember Matt Dababneh, VICA Chair Coby King (High Point Strategies), VICA Secretary Lisa Gritzner (Cerrell Associates), Greater San Fernando Valley Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Nancy Hoffman-Vanyek and Greater San Fernando Valley Chamber of Commerce Chairman Mark Levinson at VICA's grand opening and ribbon cutting on Monday.

About 100 members, guests and elected officials came to VICA's new office Monday to celebrate the new home for business advocacy in the San Fernando Valley with a ribbon cutting. VICA wants to thank its members who came and showed their support, as well as those who sponsored spaces within the new office. We would like to thank the Greater San Fernando Valley Chamber of Commerce for our ribbon cutting. We'd also like to thank our elected officials for stopping by, especially Assemblymember Matt Dababneh, Sen. Bob Hertzberg, L.A. City Councilmembers Bob Blumenfield, Paul Koretz and David Ryu, and Calabasas City Councilmember Fred Gaines.

Come One, Come All To See VICA's 2015 Business Forecast Conference

Step right up, step right up -- VICA's annual Business Forecast Conference welcomes all to the economic "State of Confusion," the theme of this year's event, Friday, Oct. 16, from 7 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Sheraton Universal. The event features a lunch-time keynote address by L.A. Mayor Eric Garcetti, a breakfast with three separate economic forecasts given by local, state and national experts. After the forecasts, guests will be able to check out eight panel discussions with experts in the fields of transportation, housing, water, earthquakes, live entertainment and the future of the news business. Click here for the complete list of our economists and panelists.

GOURMET PIZZELLES & BISCOTTI

Many dream of the sweet life when they retire, but for two Los Angeles Police Department officers, those dreams are already taking shape -- when they're not on duty. Officers Kim and Alina both work for the LAPD now, but knew they wanted to have a business they could operate when they eventually turn in their badges.

With that in mind, after the two met about two and a half years ago, they became fast friends and decided to start a business together. Kim says her Italian roots led her to start in the kitchen baking pizzelles, a traditional Italian waffle cookie. The two then started experimenting with another treat, biscotti. "We started to work on some recipes, and we just hit it on the head with our gourmet biscotti," Kim said. And like that, Pizzscotti, a name that blends their two treats, was born. The company sells online at Pizzscotti.com, and the business owners are also using the burgeoning success of their "dangerously good" treats to start a nonprofit in support of domestic violence and human trafficking victims. In these efforts, the two have already begun to form partnerships with VICA members such as the San Fernando Valley Rescue Mission to help the community.

L.A. Olympics Would be the San Fernando Valley Games, Too

Los Angeles Daily News

When I first heard about the potential for a Los Angeles bid to host the 2024 Olympic and Paralympic Games, I felt an overwhelming sense of excitement for the endless opportunities it would offer our city and the San Fernando Valley. The City Council's unanimous backing for L.A.'s bid on Sept. 1 only reaffirmed my belief that the business case for an L.A. Games is very strong. Los Angeles has hosted the Olympics twice -- both times profitably. There's no magic formula here. It's simply great management of carefully developed and fully vetted plans aligned with the long-term needs of our city.

patients may have a future as the long-sought birth control "pill" for men, new research suggests.

Politics

Ending weeks of infighting, the U.S. Congress on Wednesday voted to avert a government shutdown just hours before a midnight deadline, passing a stop-gap measure to extend funding for federal agencies until Dec. 11.

Taxes

A new poll finds that nearly half of likely California voters favor temporarily extending Proposition 30's sales and income tax hikes, but support falls to just 32 percent when asked if they should be made permanent.

Transportation

September auto sales were so strong in the U.S. that even Volkswagen squeezed out a small gain -- despite halting sales of its diesel cars because of an emissions test-rigging scandal.

Water

A state water official said Californians have met a mandate to save water for a third consecutive month during the grinding drought.
